Introducing Neelam Summer–Spring Collection

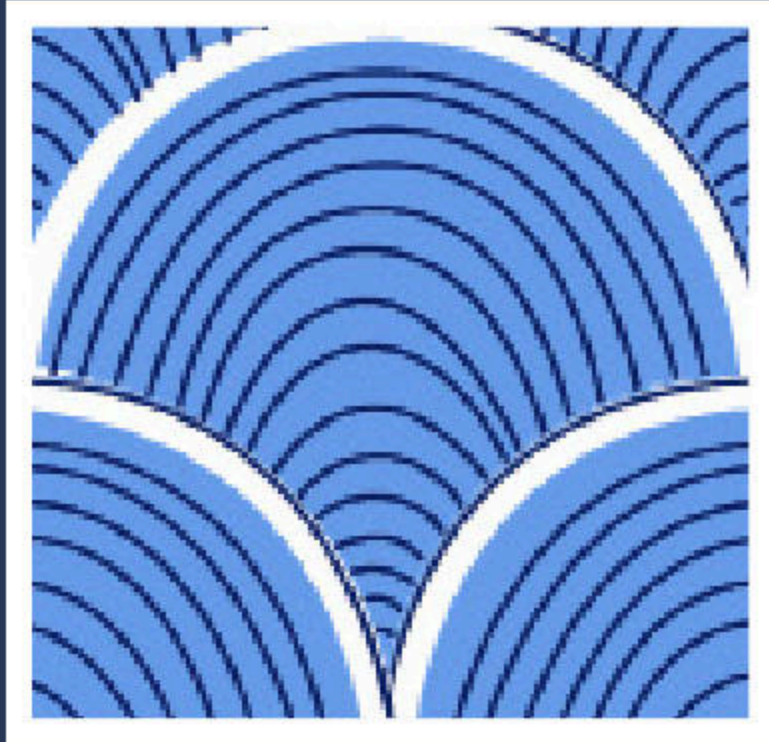

PANGEA & Co.

Steeped in heritage yet crafted for modern play, this collection draws inspiration from the timeless art of Jaipuri blue pottery. Known for its intricate floral patterns, rippling motifs, and calming hues, this craft has been lovingly reimaged into prints and silhouettes made for today's little explorers.

From fish-scale waves that echo ripples of water, to hand-drawn stripes and geometric grids, and finally to delicate blue florals, each design carries the essence of craftsmanship while feeling fresh, global, and playful.

The collection features organic cotton dresses, rompers, shorts, and sets, all designed with comfort-first silhouettes.

This collection is a celebration of heritage, sustainability, and childhood magic.

About

Pangea & Co.

At Pangea & Co., we believe childhood deserves clothes as pure, imaginative, and enduring as the children who wear them. Born in India and crafted for the world, our brand is rooted in sustainability, culture, and timeless design. Every collection takes inspiration from rich artistic traditions, hand-drawn and digitized by skilled artisans, reimagined for today's global taste. The result is organic, GOTS-certified kidswear that blends comfort, durability, and cultural storytelling in silhouettes little ones can live and play in.

Pangea & Co. is more than kidswear. It's wearable art, accessible luxury, and a reminder that we are all connected—just like the supercontinent we have named after.

Founder's Note

I started Pangea & Co. as a mother searching for something I couldn't find, clothes that were safe for my children, gentle on the planet, and beautiful to treasure.

Too often, sustainability felt like a privilege. Organic fabrics and thoughtful design came with price tags out of reach for most families. I wanted to change that.

Pangea & Co. is my way of proving that sustainability can be accessible. Every piece is created with care. organic fabrics, artisanal craft, and stories drawn from culture, tested in the everyday lives of my own two little ones.

This brand is more than fashion.

It is a mother's dream, woven into clothes for children around the globe.

PANGEA & Co.

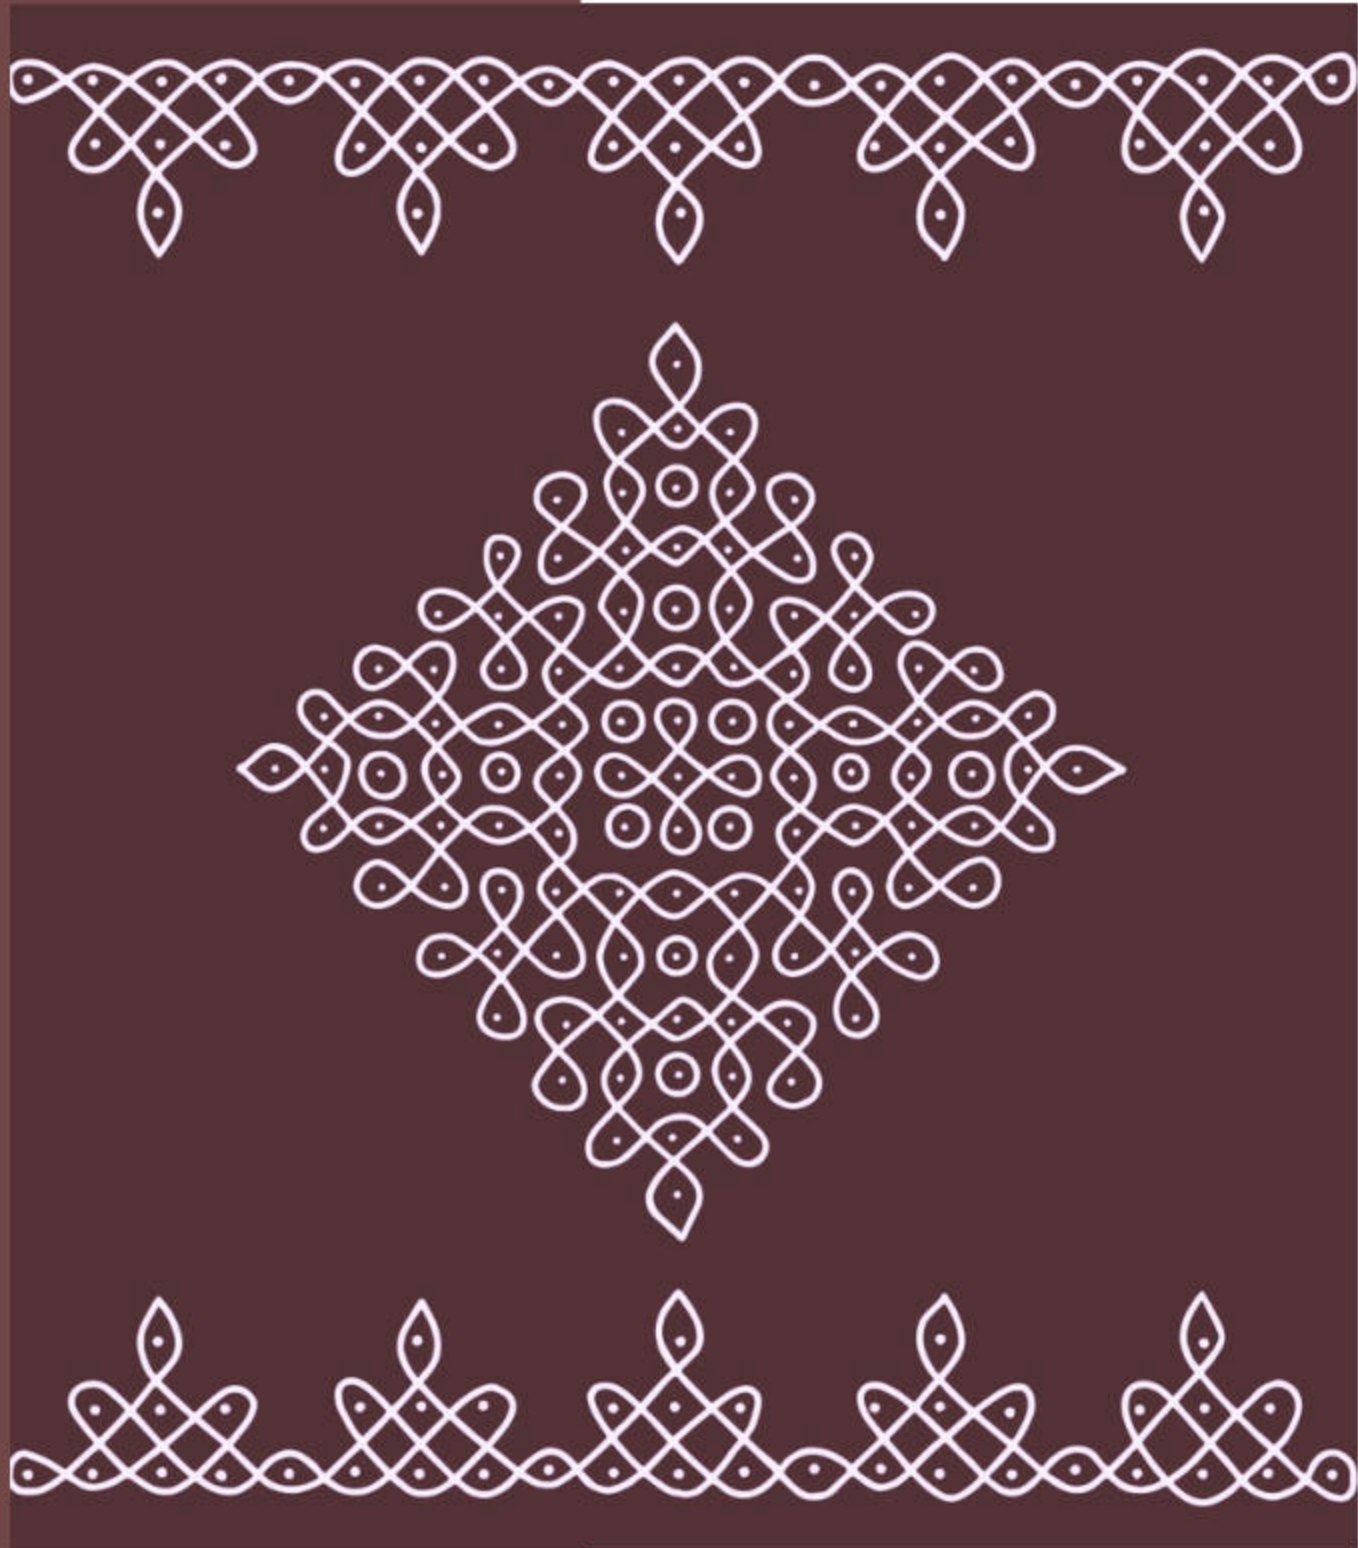

Thank You!

Echoes of Kolam

This Autumn Winter, Pangea & Co. celebrates the timeless beauty of Kolams. Intricate patterns drawn at the entrance of homes in South India. Traditionally created with rice flour, these designs are more than just art; they are a quiet reflection of sustainability and harmony with nature.

Every Kolam is drawn at dawn, welcoming positivity into the home while also nourishing tiny birds and insects that feed on the rice powder. It is a simple, yet profound act of co-existence, where humans create beauty while giving back to the ecosystem.

Inspired by this philosophy, our AW “Echoes of Kolam” Collection brings these graceful geometric and free-flowing motifs into sustainable children’s wear. Each design echoes the values of balance, community, and conscious living, reminding us that true beauty lies in respecting the world around us.

Crafted with organic fabrics, subtle tones, and versatile silhouettes, this collection is designed to be cherished through the season and beyond. Just like the Kolam that is renewed every day, our garments are made to be worn, loved, and passed forward; keeping alive the story of tradition, sustainability, and harmony.
